ment to join the Postal Union; to-day we and will be even more cordially endorsed propose to outer somewhat further into when the results, in the shape of greatly the subject. The step is unquistionably reduced rates of postage, are practically one of considerable importance, and it has experienced to some extent no doubt, taken the cominquity by surprise. The question is, however, by no means, a new one. For some time past it has been felt that the postal for previous information writes, under date of rates more especially those on letters to higher than they should be, and the feeling frequently found expression in the Press. We have, on several occasions, pointed out the glaring inequalities existing, and they have been frankly admitted. The Postsince his appointment, shown himself zealous to procure reductions in the made, helping considerably to equalise the joining the Postal Union the letter-postage being made public. Things will doubtless coze gardener, was charged on suspicion with having Conce Islands, for the missing steamer Scotia, in a large well ventilated shed; A few days ago will be brought down from twenty-eight and of money, or both four prices of the and are sent up stocks. Gurdene came on again, and the case was line rate of the left burriane. At 11.80 p.m. the twenty four cents to sixteen and twelve cents generally and made exchange weak," respectively. This is a substantial reduction. which will make a marked difference to the mercantile and banking community, who carry on a large correspondence. It will also, in lesser degree, be felt as a boom every letter writer in the Colony, and equally so by their correspondents at home.

It may possibly be objected by some, that the new privilege is one that will have to be purchased, and can, therefore hardly be regarded as a concession. This is perfectly true. The reduction in rates which wil be secured by joining the Postal Union will have to be paid for. There as most people are aware, a heavy loss on the service to the East. By Hongkone joining the Postal Union this will be creased. The Home Government, anxious, however, to bring in all the Eastern Colonies and Dependencies, proposed in a despatch received in June that Hongkong should join the Postal Union, and pay half the additions loss involved, or £6,300 per annum. This sum naturally seemed to the Authorities here very large compared with those paid by Ceylon and the Straits Settlements, which amount to £1,650 and £2,500 respectively, more especially considering that half of the mail despatched from and received here is sent-from and goes to the ports of China and Japan. They considered that half the proposed contribution, or £8,150 per aunum, would be a fair sum for Hongkong to pay. A telegram was received from Loudon on the 7th ult., in answer to their reply to the H.M.S. Sparton at sea on the 17th July, in his circular; stating that £3,150 would ! the Postal Union charge to the Colony Even this sum is large beside the Ceylon contribution, but this Colony is, it must be remembered, some three thousand miles further from Europe than that island. As service for the Treaty ports of China and Japan, the Home-Government will; we suppose, bear their share of the loss. Hongkong has simply to bear its own proportion, which would not be diminished if the ports were made to contribute. They, of course, will enjoy an unpaid for advantage. This seems rather unfair, but it cannot be rectified. Th American and Japanese opposition those ports renders it impossible to make them contribute, and as their benefit is not really purchased at the expense of this Colony, we have no legitimate cause to grumble. To grudge them their good Orders for Copies may be sent to the Daily fortune in such a case would be neither gracious nor generous. The advantages obtained by the Colony entering the Postal Union being, ther obvious and undeniable, and the cost being only what is after all strictly fair, the one question remaining is whether the gain will balance the contribution. The GOVERNOR after a careful examination of the calcula-CHEROO and Messes. Hatt & Holtz and Kelly tions made and put before him, is, he say satisfied that the saving to the general public from the adoption of the proposal to join the Postal Union will amount to a considerably larger sum than the subsidy Hongkong standing. is expected to pay. There will be a less to the revenue also, but that is, His Excollency assures us, sufficiently clastic to bear it. There is every reason to believe that Sir ARTHUE KENNEDY'S anticipations will be amply verified, and, this admitted, no valid objection can be offered to the Council on Thursday. The Post Office will no doubt cease to be a source of should be a matter for regret. With an enlightened government the first consideration should always be the welfare and convenience chief, or did he intend to challenge to fight to the prosperity of a nation, and so long as the service pays its expenses nothing more should be expected. In America, where all the services are worked on the most economical scale, the Post Office is a source of less, owing to the determination of the Government that it shall be efficiently maintained and the rates be low. In Great Britain, on the contrary a considerable revenue is still derived from the Postal Department, which may be explained chiefly by the greater density of population and consequent lower cost of delivery But it is notorious that some of the lower officials at home are underpaid, and, as they are exposed to a good deal of temptation, it would be slike just and politic to spend a portion of the profits in increasing the remuneration of these hardly worked employee. The time is approaching, as Mr. Ligres remarks in his distance off Lau-pl, the attacking party coming report, when no Post Office will be expected to do more than pay working expenses, and it is as well to look the fact in the face now. There are plenty of ways of making up for the expected loss, no doubt. In spite of individual in the Colony. Taking all things

The stenmer Glenearn left Singapore for Hougkong on the ofternoon of the 19th inst. There is not much more to add. The Convention was signed on the 13th, and gally think after all we have gained very little. The reduction of the indemnity, which was stated to have been but at a million is reduced to Tis. 200,000; Now, head money is perhaps objectionable, but war expenses not, and when a country master General of this Colony has, ever bue been put to unnecessary expenditure by shuffling and double-dealing enemy, expenses incurred by such delay should be paid y those involving it. Some people say that postage, and at different periods during the the Woosing Railway has been gold to the present your several concessions have been Uhinese, but I cannot find that this comes from puri of the Convention, I am informed that the rates to various countries; and including an | lekin tax remains machanged, save that it is not appreciable change in the newspaper postage to be levied within foreign settlements. Its opening can scarcely fail to give an impetus to trade, but it is possible that it may interfere in some measure with port on the coast of Chekiang, situated nearly midway between Foochow and Ningpo. It is a place of some little importance, and has before been mentioned as likely to one Withu. This place lies a few miles above Nanking on the Yangtsze, and like that city was occupied and injured by the Taepings. It is the centre of a rather extensive commerce, and will soon, doubtless, become one of the most flourishing river ports. Ichana is situated in the western division of Hupeh. and is one of the most centrally located cities in all China: It is regarded, we believe, as likely to become a great mart for the distribution of foreign produce. A substantial gain will have been effected by the opening. of these new ports, but it is to be hoped that merchants will not be too sanguine and expect impossible results all at once. With regard to the remainder of the points

A British Consul is to be located in Yunnan-fu, and from this circumstance it would appear that it is intended to parsevere in the attempt to establish an overland trade route through Bormah with Yunnan. Nothing has been said either about the excessive lekin taxation or the blockede of Hongkong by Canton that the whole question of illegal taxation of trade will be considered when the treaties are revised, while the Hongkong grievand will form a matter for separate discussion. We trust that both questions will soon be attended to. however, for while one is most White War-5 pieces, at $54.00, by Kwong seriously detrimental to all foreign trade in China, the other is a wrong and an affront to Kin which the Colony has no right to submit, more especially as it operates prejudicially upou nativo trade. Further details of the settlement will be eagerly looked forward to. It is gratifying to know that the terms of the is, at least, some consolation for having been kept so many months in a state of suspense. The British Minister is to be congratulated on having achieved a diplomatic victory and secured some decisive results, though it has been won after a hard and, as it seems to us a somewhat needlessly protracted struggle.

September 6th. The past week has added but little to the scanty stock of political intelligence. The Proling has returned and the Thistle has departed leaving three foreign gunboate in port. The German, Russian, and Austrian Minimisters are reported to have arrived from Obefor, and more officials are speedily expected. Mr. Sheppurd U.S. Consul, bus gone to Chefco, and the British and German Consuls are both away. Strong excitemens are said to breed recogure as great swamps breed mesquitoes, but very few rumours appear to be in general circulation, and there is very little indication of any excitament-on-the part of any one. The must excit ing rumour wha that circulated a few days since among the Chinese, to the effect that the Vicercy had sent word to the Salt Commissioner to " prepare." This was handed about from one. gossip to another with much gusto. To be noury of a foreigner, what it was that the Commissioner was to prepare, the ready reply was made: - " He did not eny."
